AUTUMN 2015

Meet Brad Konemann

Brad Konemann is currently studying in his second year at Moore Theological College. He has been married to Katherine for seven years, has a two-year-old daughter (Eva), and another child due to be born in July 2015. Before going to college, Brad worked for Voice of the Martyrs where he founded their youth program, Thirteen Three, and equipped Australian teenagers to support the persecuted church. He also served in various ministries at Springwood Anglican Church before he decided to study at Bible college and be trained for a lifetime of ministry. Brad is now serving at Anchor Church Sydney, a new church in Erskineville that is seeking to make disciples by living in community, on mission, for Jesus. The ACF is proud to support Brad as he raises support for himself by directing his supporters to make tax deductible donations through the ACF.

The ACF is proud to support Brad and commends the very successful way that he gains financial support by directing his supporters to donate through the ACF where they gain tax deductibility.

Ephesians 4:11&12

It was He (Jesus) that called some to be apostles, some to be prophets, some to be evangelists, some to be pastors and teachers.....so that the Body of Christ may be built up.

The ACF has been able to assist Brad's training in becoming an "Evangelist, Pastor and Teacher", and fulfil this command in Ephesians. The ACF helps students by offering tax deductibility for supporters' donations. The ACF acknowledges that the call to full time training for Christian Ministry is a formidable financial challenge. Being able to offer supporters tax deductibility often assists in meeting this challenge from God.

Since our inception we have been fortunate enough to work alongside some wonderful training organisations and have forged some great relationships in Christian service. These are some of the organisations whose students have received bursaries from The Annabel Charitable Foundation. Many students have found tax deductibility offered to their supporters by donating through The ACF has encouraged greater support.

The ACF is pleased to fund all bursary recipients and their spouses to attend a Peacewise one day training seminar on personal peacemaking.

“This seminar will help you learn to address conflict in a biblical manner. You will learn how to respond to conflict and reconcile relationships in your own life in a way that will glorify God, serve others and help you become more like Christ.

This level of training is relevant for all Christians, helping you to understand how to integrate peacemaking into the fabric of your church and to develop a culture of peace within it. The principles are also highly relevant for building a culture of peace in other Christian communities like schools and ministry workplaces.”
